Murder Will Out.

That "truth is stranger than fiction" has been often said, and the circumstances we are about to relate, do not at all lessen the truth of the quotation.

Last week we noticed that a special term of the Circuit Court was in session for the trial of John C. Lester, charged with the murder of King B. Scott.

Scott was a young man who was brought up in this county, wild and reckless in his habits, and careless about the good opinion of the society in which he lived. His mother possessed considerable property, and Scott and Lester, who had married Scott's sister, were her only heirs. Mrs. Scott was, one morning after a corn shucking at the house of Lester found in her own house dead. When discovered, she was lying in the fire place, nearly half consumed, as tho' she had fallen in the fire accidentally, and thus died. Suspicions were aroused at the time that there had been foul play, and that old Mrs. Scott had been murdered; however, as there was such an appearance of accident, no clue could then be had to the murderers, if she was murdered.

In the month of October, 1843, Scott, then about 18 years old, was apprehended on a charge of larceny, on the information of Lester, his brother-in-law. He managed to make his escape from custody, and disappeared. His sudden disappearance was freely commented upon by the neighborhood, and there were those who did not hesitate to say he had been murdered. Subsequently, Lester was indicted for having forged some instrument of writing, and a man named John Horton was indicted for perjury, having, as a subscribing witness, sworn to the genuineness of the instrument. By the delays and uncertainties of the law, Horton was first tried for the crime with which he was charged, Lester so managing the matter as to put off his trial until the fate of Horton was determined; and at the March term, 1844, of the Lafayette Circuit Court, Horton was found guilty of perjury, and sentenced to the penitentiary for two years.—Lester was subsequently tried for the forgery and acquitted. Proper representations having been made to Gov. Edwards, he pardoned Horton in April last.

Upon the return of Horton to this county, immediately after he received his pardon, he declared that King B. Scott had been murdered, and made oath before Judge Ryland that Lester was his murderer. A warrant was issued for Lester's arrest, and he was apprehended at his farm on the next day. On bringing the prisoner to town he attempted to escape, but was badly wounded and captured by the guard.

The examination of Lester took place before Judge Ryland the next day, and Horton swore positively that he saw Lester murder Scott. As well as we recollect Horton's narrative of the horrid affair was about as follows:

He said he had been to a neighbor's house, and was returning home in the evening when he saw some deer in the prairie, which he followed—getting near a small thicket or grove in the prairie, he saw Lester and Scott coming down the prairie. He determined to secrete himself in the bushes to let them pass, but instead of passing him, they turned down a hollow in the prairie near him, and he determined to watch them to see what they were about. It by this time was growing dark, and the two commenced making a fire. After they had lighted a fire, a bottle was produced from which they drank alternately, and when Scott turned to set the bottle down, Lester struck him on the head with a club, and continued to inflict blows upon him until he was dead—he then buried him in a sort of gulley, and covered him with dirt and stones.

A day or two after, Horton said he had been hunting ducks, and on his return home he saw some turkeys which he followed to the hills—he came suddenly on the top of a steep hill, and in the hollow he saw Lester digging a hole—he crept softly away, and on returning by the spot where Scott had been buried, he saw that hogs had partly rooted him from his grave, and had eaten a part of the body—he then supposed that Lester's object in digging the hole was to make a more secure grave for his victim; he accordingly watched Lester's movements that evening, and saw him remove Scott and re-bury him.

A party was sent to the place where Horton said Scott was buried, accompanied by H. to show the spot, and the body was taken up and recognized to be the body of Scott, from the clothing. He was buried in a place that no human being would ever suppose to be selected as a grave, and even those who were sent to search for this evidence to corroborate Horton's testimony, believed the story to be a fiction until the body was found. It was in a ravine where a constant stream was constantly flowing over the grave.

Upon this testimony, Lester was committed for trial.

Lester applied for a change of venue, and his trial was removed to Jackson county. The whole of the week before last and part of the last were devoted to the trial. Circumstances elicited testimony other than that of the evidence of Horton, which convinced the minds of the jury, and after a short absence they returned with a verdict of guilty.

The judge, upon pronouncing the awful sentence of the law, asked the prisoner if he had any thing to say why sentence of death should not be pronounced against him. Lester arose and for an hour addressed the court, alleging his innocence, and explaining away the circumstances which seemed most dark against him, in a manner which we are told brought tears to the eyes of that large audience which had assembled to hear his awful doom.

The sentence of the law was then pronounced, which we are told was most solemn and impressive, and we regret that we have not yet a copy of it to publish.

The prisoner had most able counsel—Messrs. French, Doniphan, Kirkpatrick, Palmer, Sawyer, and Harper—the prosecution was assisted by Messrs. Wood and Young. The counsel for the prisoner prayed an arrest of judgment, and moved for a new trial, which the Judge overruled. An appeal has been taken to the Supreme Court.

We said other testimony had been elicited besides that of Horton, and this testimony tending so strongly to criminate Horton, he has been arrested, charged with being an accomplice. His examination commenced yesterday. It is now confidently believed that stranger things will yet be divulged, and that it will perhaps be discovered that Mrs. Scott was murdered, and by whom.—Illinois paper.

Women at Auction.

A sale of unmarried women is annually held in Babylon. In every district they assemble on a certain day of every year, all the virgins of marriageable age. The most beautiful are first put up, and the man who bids the largest sum of money gains possession of her. The second in personal appearance follows, the bidders gratify themselves with handsome wives according to the depths of their purses. There are in Babylon some girls for which no bid is offered, yet, these are also disposed of, so provident are the Babylonians. When all the beautiful girls are sold, the crier orders the most deformed to stand up; and after he has openly demanded who will marry her with a small sum, she is at length adjudged to the man who is satisfied with the least and in this manner the money arising from the sales of the handsome, serves as portions to those who are of either disagreeable looks or have any other imperfections.

Indian Philanthropy.

A writer giving an account of a visit to the Tuscarora Indians, says: "After spending a half a day in addressing about one hundred through an interpreter, two Indians came forward and offered to engage as Colporteurs, and visit all the wigwams in the forest, embracing three hundred. They said that about seventy could read English, and with those who could not read, they would talk about Jesus. I gave them instruction, supplied them with books and tracts, and off they went into the woods—perhaps the two first Indian Colporteurs that were ever seen. The Indians are accessible; I can command their attention any length of time upon religious subjects. If we could devote time and a little expense by way of gratuitous distribution of tracts and volumes, it would, no doubt, prepare the way for a great reformation among them."

DIED IN THE CARS.—The Cecil Whig, of Saturday says. "A young man named Cullum, died in the cars between here and Baltimore on last Saturday night. He belonged to Chester county, and we understand had abused himself by being on a "spree," the result of which was a hurried death"

Extract from a Diary in London,--June 1845.

I have frequently had occasion to remark the attractiveness of children at the west end of this vast metropolis; and as among the inducements to an early morning walk in and near the Parks and Squares, is the pleasure of meeting them, I must indulge in a sketch of one. Walking in Grosvenor Place this morning on my way to breakfast, and passing Balkin street, my attention was attracted by a group of children with their servants and nurses some thirty yards distant up Said st., leading to Belgrave Square. Among these children a bright animated little fellow in cap and plume, in a short dress and his legs bare, caught my eye, and recognizing my motion that he should run to me, suddenly broke away from the group and skip'd toward me with the agility of a young deer I crouch'd down with my arms extended to catch him, and he sprang into them with all the confidence of an old acquaintance—but in the same instant that he sprang to my neck, his little hands adroitly threw my hat off behind me on the pavement, and, though nearly out of breath, he shouted to the top of his bent in a most joyous laugh.

By this time the whole group was in full chase after him and his servant—a very respectful and anxious looking female was soon along side of me, full of kind reproaches of the youngster; and apologies for his rudeness in knocking off my hat which till then I supposed to have been accidental—"what," said I, "did he do it purposely?" 'O yes, your honor, it is a trick my Lud teaches him—he knocks his Ludships hat off the same way."

Holding him tightly against my chest, his hands resting on my shoulders and bracing himself off and looking me in the face—his bright blue eye and clear expressive countenance redolent of health and joy—and his flaxen ringlets blending with the plumes of his well secured cap—What is your name? says I, "puddin" says he, and then I would tickle him and then he would shout out a laugh again—whose son is he? said I to the nurse or servant—"my Lord——No no "puddin"—"puddin," interrupted the little fellow—Is he the eldest? "O yes your honor his Ludship only married four years ago. "your know."

This however I did not know, "you know," so I made no further enquiry about a matter that it was supposed every body knew. All I knew was that I held a young legitimate Lord in my arms—the heir and hope of the illustrious house of ——, dating its name and fame with the Norman conquest, and making its history since in many contests by flood and field.

And so thinks I this is another young one of that stock!—he begins early in knocking off hats.

"So you knocked off my hat, did you," said I, "take that, master Puddin," and I gave him a slap on his bare leg. The nurse then handed me my hat, and I had scarcely put it on, when it was on the pavement again—maugre all my spanking and threatening.

"O, its no use your honor to put your hat on whilst he can reach it, he will be sure to knock it off."

If he has not evinced so much real enjoyment in knocking my hat off—if he had not been as beautiful as the pencil of the painter or the chizzel of the sculptor in their highest conceptions could fashion forth—and had I time to spare before breakfast, I should have continued the contest with this young Peer of England. So I gave it up with a kiss on his fair forehead, and when I put him down there followed quite a contest between him and his nurse, for he was very desirous of going along with me—having, as he supposed, discovered in me a genial spirit in fun and frolic.

A few years hence (if he lives) his name perhaps will be Gazetted in the army or navy—or diplomatic department, and coming of age, will be called in his time to "the House of Lords." If he fails in ably discharging his duty in any position to which he may be called, he will be the first of his House and line that has been found deficient.

I reluctantly separated myself from this joyous little fellow—but an agreeable recollection of him, will long remain with me—and I make this passing record of this little incident of our meeting, not without a hope that in some future day, either I or mine may fall upon it, when little "Puddin" shall have become a full grown lord and peer of England. And thus, really the truth of the old saying —great oaks from little acorns grow.

And now to breakfast.—N. York Evening Gazette.

Death Warrant of Jesus Christ.

Of the many interesting relics and fragments of antiquity which have been brought to light by the persevering researches of modern philosophy, none could have more interest to the philanthropist and the believer, than the one which we copy below. "Chance," says the Courrier des Etats Unis "has just put into our hands the most imposing and interesting judicial document to all Chistians, that ever has been recorded in human annals; that is the identical Death Warrant of our Lord Jesus Christ. The document was faithfully transcribed by the the editor and is in hæc verba.

Sentence rendered by Pontius Pilate, acting Governor of Lower Galilee, stating that Jesus of Nazareth shall suffer death on the cross.

"In the year seventeen of the emperor Tiberius Cæsar, and the 25th day of March, the city of the holy Jerusalem, Anna and Caiphas being priests, sacrificators of the people of God, Pontius Pilate, Governor of Lower Galilee, sitting on the presidential chair of the Pretory, condemns Jesus of Nazareth to die on the cross between two thieves —the great and notorious evidence of the people saying—

1. Jesus is a seducer.
2. He is seditious.
3. He is an enemy of the law.
4. He calls himself falsely the Son of God.
5. He calls himself faisely the King of Israel.
6. He entered into the temple followed by a multitude bearing palm branches in their hands.

Order the first centurian, Quillus Cornelius, to lead him to the place of execution.

Forbid any person whomsoever, either poor or rich, to oppose the death of Jesus.

The witnesses who signed the condemnation of Jesus are, viz: 1, Daniel Robani, a Pharisee; 2, Joannus Rorobable; 3, Raphdel Robani; 4, Capet a citizen.

Jesus shall go out of the city of Jerusalem by the gate of Struenus."

The above sentence is engraved on a copper plate; on one side are written these words:—'A similar plate is sent to each tribe.' It was found in an antique vase of white marble, while excavating in the ancient city of Aquilla, in the kingdom of Naples, in the year 1320, and was discovered by the Commissioners of arts attached to the French armies. At the expedition of Naples, it was found enclosed in a box of ebony, in the sacristy of The Chartrem, The vase in the chapel of Caserta.—The French translation was made by the members of the Commissaries of Arts. The original is in the Hebrew language. The Chartrem requested earnestly that the plate should not be taken away from them. The request was granted, as a reward for the sacrifice they had made for the army. M. DENON, one of the savans, caused a plate to be made of the same model, on which he had engraved the above sentence, At the sale of his collection of antiquities, &c. it was bought by Lord Howard for 2,390 francs. Its intrinsic value and interest are much greater. A few years ago there was found at Catskill, in New York, a "shekel of Israel," of the time of our Saviour." On one side was the representation of a palm leaf, on the other, a picture of the temple, with the words underneath, "Holy Jerusalem," in the Hebrew tongue. Relics like these; properly authenticated, have about them an inexpressible sacredness and moment. They seem to blend two worlds, and to carry human curiosity from the finite to the infinite.

THE GIRARD LIFE INSURANCE, ANNUITY AND TRUST COMPANY of Philadelphia. Chartered in 1836—Charter Perpetual;—Capital, $300,000—BENJAMIN W. RICHARDS, President;—Continues to make insurance on lives, grant annuities and endowments, and accept trusts from individuals, corporate bodies, and courts of justice, and execute them agreeably to the desire of the parties, and receive deposites of money in trust or on interest.

The Company add a bonus at stated periods to the insurance for life, and on the 20th of January last, an addition was made to all policies for life, remaining in force and issued prior to January 1st, 1842, amounting to 10 per cent. on the sum insured in policies issued in 1837, 7½ per cent. on policies issued in 1838, and in rateable proportions according to their respective dates.

The chief object of an insurance for life is to provide a sum of money at the death of the party insured, for the benefit of a widow, children, friends or creditors; and it will be seen on an examination of the table of rates of the life insurance, which will be furnished by the subscriber to all who may feel an interest in the subject, that by paying a small sum to the office every year during his life, a person may secure to his family a very considerable amount at his decease.

Wherever the system of Life Insurance is properly understood, it is extensively adopted, and its great advantages to all, but more especially to those who depend on their own exertions for the support of their families, or who may be desirous to secure the payment of a sum of money to their friends, creditors or children, at their decease, which they might be otherwise unable to accomplish, that the operation of the system needs but to be explained to ensure the serious consideration of the public.

In several instances it has happened that the party insured has died shortly after, having paid only one or two instalments of the premium, when his family have received from this office the full amount for which he had insured.

Full information on this important subject may be obtained by applying, personally, or by letter (post-paid) at the office of the subscriber, the authorised agent of the Girard Life Insurance Company.

Whig and Antimasonic Nomination
FOR MAYOR, ALLEGHENY CITY.
ROBERT S. CASSAT.

☞ We will issue no paper to-morrow.

Our Terms.

We have redeemed our promise to enlarge and new dress our paper. It is now the handsomest daily, we think, in Pennsylvania. But we cannot afford it at $5 per annum, and pay an advance of 75 cents per ream for our paper; yet we are reluctant to advance our price. We will compromise thus for the present. From this day forth, our daily will be charged at Six Dollars per annum. Those subscribers who have paid in advance, will still be served at the old rate, until the expiration of their respective terms of subscription. From those subscribers now on our books, who may choose to pay, forthwith, a year's subscription in advance, at our counter, Five dollars will be received in full. To yearly advertisers, who pay us $25 per annum, inclusive of paper, the same rate will be charged; in other words, we drop a dollar to them. Our daily sheet, it will be understood then, is Six Dollars per annum, except to those who may choose to pay promptly in advance, the whole year's subscription.

The Tri-weekly sheet will remain at Three Dollars per annum.

Our Weekly sheet will also continue at the old rate of Two Dollars per annum in advance.

We have not the slightest cause to complain of our subscribers. Generally, the few bills we have been enabled to make out and present, have been promptly and cheerfully paid. But we have been unable to extract leisure from our editorial labors to play the clerk, and the consequence is, that our collections have been very inconsiderable. Now, and for the next six months, we shall ask our friends to be ready to meet our calls. We are incurring large expenses, but the business of the office is ample to meet them easily; all we require is payment of arrears. We neither need nor desire advance payments. If our friends will attend to these matters, we will take good care to preserve the interest of our columns, and make the Journal useful and desirable to all conditions of men.

As the stability of our establishment is questioned by insinuation in interested quarters, we deem it proper here to repeat that if ever there was a period when the permanency and success of the Journal were questionable, we did not know it, and it is now undoubtedly as stable and prosperous as any newspaper in Pittsburgh, without a single exception.

Our Daily list has more than doubled, and continues to increase with unexampled rapidity. Our Tri-Weekly list has largely increased, and our Weekly, has gone up more than thirty per cent, and continues rapidly to swell. Our advertising custom, stated and transient, has increased nearly eight fold. Since we had occasion, a few days since, to state that our yearly advertisers had gone up beyond seventy from almost nothing, we have added about half a dozen more. As an evidence of the rapid increase of our business, we may state that in the last week but one, of the issue of our little black sheet, our accessions of daily subscribers, were 18—the last week 12, making 30 new dailies in the two weeks.

Since our new sheet issued, the additions to our list are even more numerous. This, without referring to other evidence, must convince the veriest doubter that the Commercial Journal is beyond the experimental age.

If our friends, now, will meet their little engagements with us, we shall go on our way rejoicing and prosperous.

A New Penny Paper.

As may be seen by the Prospectus which we have already published, a new Penny Paper will be published in this office under the editorial auspices of Mr. James D. Thorahurgh. Before we bespeak as we shall do, now and hereafter, favor and support for this experiment, we desire to have it understood that the editor of the Commercial Journal is to be in no degree connected with the editorial management of the SUNBEAM, and in no wise responsible for it. That it will be conducted with considerable ability and the utmost decorum, we are well assured. It will be strictly independent in politics, aiming wholly to diffuse light and knowledge among the masses which it is designed to reach more generally than is possible with the costlier newspapers. The SUNBEAM is to be the organ and advocate of no-ism unless indeed we may be allowed to coin a word and assign it a rank as the organ of elevationism. This it will aim at.

The arrangements made to give interest and value to the columns of the SUNBEAM promise to make it at once acceptable and useful.

☞ Since the foregoing was written we are informed that Mr. Van Amringe, who has gained a high reputation as a writer, and is justly respected for his great private excellence is to be associated with Mr. Thornburgh in the editorship. The public will perceive therefore that the SUNBEAM although a penny sheet is not to be a mere catch-penny.

☞ Advertisements for the SUNBEAM will be thankfully received at this office.

The Continuous Railroad.

It is evident, that the Philadelphians are sincerely anxious and anxiously sincere now, about connecting their city with the West, by means of a Railroad. It is quite time, that they should be awake to their own interests, and prepare for effectual competition with other Atlantic cities, for the trade of the west. We are sure they are in earnest now, and we rejoice that it is so, for the interests of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh are so blended, that Philadelphia cannot suffer a decline, without injury to Pittsburgh, and she must suffer, unless soon connected with the Ohio river by Railroad.

The continuous Railroad via Harrisburgh, will do much to restore to Philadelphia her ascendancy in trade and commerce, but that alone will not suffice. She must, to perfect her approaches to, and connexion with, the West, prevent the tapping of the Ohio river by Railroad at any point so far down, as to cut off communication by the river with the Western ter- minus of the Philadelphia and Pittsburgh line.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad must not be allowed or be driven to tap the river at Parkersburgh, but invited by liberal legislation to come to Pittsburgh, and thus leave the navigation of the river open to both lines alike. We maintain that the tapping of the river at Parkersburgh by Railroad would be disastrous to Pittsburgh, and fatal to the project of a Railroad from Philadelphia to Pittsburgh. It would absolutely be equivalent to draining the river to Parkersburgh, so far as the trade with the lower country could be affected. If the Philadelphians will add to their projected continuous Railway to Pittsburgh, advocacy of such liberal and enlightened legislation, as will induce the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad to bring their Western terminus to Pittsburgh, then all will be well.

Lunch.

Mine host of the Commercial announces to his friends that he will this day serve up an extra lunch, scot free. He does these things in elegant and captivating style.

The Ten Hour System.

The Editor of the Spirit of Liberty, calls on us, to co-operate with him, to establish here the Ten-Hour-System of labor. To the end, that he shall not be able to say of us that we were "insincere," when we declared on a recent occasion, that the demand of the operatives, for a reduction of the hours of their labor, was reasonable and just, we repeat our assertion, that ten hours is long enough for grown persons to be compelled to labor. And if the system can be made general, without violence, we shall rejoice to see it introduced here into our factories. We fear, however, that the threatened destruction of the Protective Tariff, will so materially lessen the demand for labor, and by so much diminish its value, that manufacturers will be illy prepared and less disposed to pay higher prices for it. The effect of shortening the period of labor, is to give less work, and if wages remain at the present standard, the effect of the operation is to increase wages. The Democratic party sustain Mr. Polk to a man, in his project of cutting down the Tariff, for the benefit of British Manufacturers and British labor; and American labor, we dare not doubt, must decline in value. This must operate greatly against the reasonable and just demand of our operatives, and may postpone the time when they can enforce it. We hope, when they find this obstacle to the accomplishment of their wishes, directly operative, they will hold Mr. Polk's administration and the Democracy responsible for their full share of this oppression of the American laborer.

But we are not disposed by these remarks to throw cold water upon the hopes of the operative. We do most heartily wish they may induce without "striking," a general adoption of the Ten-Hour-System.

Strikes never do good, and they are not necessary to the accomplishment of the wishes of the operatives. A general and simultaneous call upon the manufacturers throughout the Union, will no doubt, elicit satisfactory answers.

The Manufacturers will either show their inability to comply, or will yield at once. Our manufacturers signified their readiness to adopt the ten hour system, whenever its adoption could be made general. They will, no doubt, redeem their pledge to a man. When they violate that, it will be time enough to impeach them.

We copy the Spirit of Liberty's article entire, not because we can approve the proposal for "a strike," for that we condemn, but because we are disposed to give the operatives a fair hearing in their own language.

Glorious news from Manchester.

The Lowell Voice of Industry contains the proceedings of another tremendous meeting of the Operatives of Manchester, New Hampshire, held on the 12th inst., at which the following preamble and resolution were adopted by acclamation:

"In view of the alarming increase of the evils of factory labor, as it now exists, the tendency of which is gradually to subvert the republican institutions of our country and fill the land with a dependant, overworked and much oppressed population, and spread disease and poverty among our people, therefore

"'Resolved, That we, the operatives of Manchester, do fully and heartily concur with the plan proposed by our friends of Pittsburgh and Allegheny city, and adopted nearly throughout the manufacturing country, that the Fourth of July, 1846, shall be the day fixed upon by the operatives of America to declare their INDEPENDENCE of the oppressive Manufacturing power, which has been imported from old monarchial England, and is now being engrafted upon the business institutions of our country; provided the manufacturers shall practically signify an unwillingness to mutually adopt the Ten Hour System.'

"The vote on this resolution was put in Mr. Cluer's peculiar style, and the universal demonstration in its favor altogether exceeded our most sanguine anticipations; hands, muffs, and handkerchiefs, a perfect ocean of them, were raised by the real operatives of Manchester in manifesting their approval of the plan which it proposes."

Joy for the poor Operatives! Let it cheer them through the long hours of this gloomy winter!—Next 4th of July will be a Jubilee Day indeed!—Rem. The Eastern Operatives and the Western Operatives will then strike together, and the Manufacturers must give way. We have a right now to expect that the Gazette and other presses which opposed the movement here, as they alleged, only because our manufactories could not compete with the Eastern mills, unless the ten hour system were generally adopted, will throw their influence now in favor of this general strike on the 4th of July next. Every daily paper in this city conceded, during the strike here, that the demand of a reduction of the hours of labor was perfectly reasonable and just—that the "ten hour system" should be generally established. The Gazette said "Ten hours is long enough for grown persons, and too long for children," and pretended warmly to desire a general reform. Now, an opportunity offers for these gentlemen to speak out. The East responds to the West, and with the hearty co-operation of the press, the "Ten Hour System" may be established, not only in Cotton Manufactories, but in every department of labor throughout the free States. We claim, in behalf of the operative classes, the hearty aid of every free press in Pittsburgh, to establish this desireable reform. If sincere in their professions made during the strike, all our neighbors must be ready to co-operate with us now; and those who refuse to do so will evince that they were insincere. We have labored unceasingly, alone, till now, and we call upon our neighbors of the Commercial Journal, Post, Chronicle, &c., to notice the above resolution, and give us their aid. The Gazette is in honor bound to approve the resolution, but we do not hope for any show of sincerity or consistency from that quarter.

Native American Thunder.

The Vicksburg Intelligencer recalls the story of a quiet, but enthusiastic Yankee who, some years since, was travelling in a mail coach with two Englishmen, who annoyed him very much by running down every thing they saw in the country, and freely determining that every thing in England was decidedly superior. Jonathan bore it, but impatiently. After some time a thunder storm broke over them—the horses dashed off in alarm, and the Englishmen were nearly dead with fright, when suddenly a bolt of lightning struck the two near horses, killing them instantly, and arresting the stage, which, in the sudden plunges of the leaders, was upset, Jonathan was the first to come out, and as the Englishman crawled out, badly hurt and half dead with fear, he exclaimed: "There, gaul darn ye, have ye any better thunder than that?"

Grand Festivity on New Year's Night.

By an advertisement which appears in another column, it will be seen that the colored population of the two cities, will hold a Grand Soiree, in the Ark, Allegheny city, on New Year's night.

These people are doing great good for themselves, and deserve the countenance and encouragement of all the well disposed and reflecting. A reminiscence induces us to suggest anew their claims upon the authorities and people for protection and support in their laudable efforts at self elevation.

☞ A correspondent at Cairo, says a Cincinnati paper, informed us that there was a "considerable row" at that place the other day. The steamer Sea Bird on her way from New Orleans to St. Louis with some 300 Germans on board as deck passengers, was compelled to "lay to" at Cairo, on account of the severe weather that she would not be able to get to St. Louis for some weeks, requested the Germans to go on shore, offering at the same time to refund them part of their passage money. They absolutely refused to leave the boat under any considerations, supposing they had a right to make a home of it for the winter. They still refused to go, after the Captain had offered to refund them the whole of the passage money they had paid, and for some imaginary offence, the whole gang fell on the mate and one or two of the crew who came to his assistance, and severely beat them. The crews of several boats which were laying up at the same place, immediately went to the assistance of the crew of the Sea Bird, and to use the words of our correspondent "cleared the boat of the Dutch, and all their baggage in from three to five minutes."

☞ The navigation of the Potomac River, has entirely closed.

☞ After a three weeks storm at New Orleans, the weather became pleasant on the 16th, when the sun shone cheerfully.

☞ The Baltimore papers notice the death of a distinguished citizen, Henry Payson, Esq.

Matters Personal.

We have a further reply from the editor of the Gazette, which we find it agreeable and convenient to notice. As it is chiefly a reiteration of what we have before published, it will not be necessary to perfect fairness, to publish this last article, and we shall merely make such extracts as comprehend the points we desire to notice. We shall run through these as rapidly as possible, for we begin to see where we may drop the controversy, so far as "circulation" and that much vaunted "power-press," are concerned.

We repeat that the power press was procured to do the work of the Christian Advocate. That paper having some 3000 to 3500 of a list, as we are informed, and issuing or professing to issue, the whole on one day, really required a "power press," while we re-assert, that the Gazette's little list requires no such aid. In order to escape the inevitable confession, the Gazette attempts the shallow trick of adding together his circulation of the six working days, say 6 times 500 are 3000, and adds his weekly, probably 1300 to that aggregate of the daily to make a grand total of 4300 or possibly he may have 4400. He attempts very cunningly to establish that, if, as we admit, the Christian Advocate with 3000 or 3500 copies in the week, requires a power press, the Pittsburgh Gazette, with a larger weekly aggregate, still more requires a power press! The only mistake the editor makes is in suppressing the fact, that while the Christian Advocate's edition issues in one day, the Gazette's is cut up into six distinct days' work! But we like the editor's argument on this point, for it shows that he cannot deny our statement, that the circulation of our paper is nearly double that of the Gazette. He has nowhere ventured to state what his circulation is, but replies generally that we understated it.

We must take it as admitted then, after all, that our circulation is nearly double the Gazette's. While the numbers of our subscribers are so much larger, we have already offered the best proof that they are similar in character to the subscribers of the Gazette. Hence, it must be admitted the Journal is a more valuable medium of advertising to every business man.

But the editor says his aggregate circulation of the daily and weekly is two thousand larger than the Christian Advocate's. In reply to this, we have merely to say that we have then greatly over-rated the circulation of that sheet. We feel well assured the circulation of the Gazette's daily, is little, if at all, exceeding 500 sheets. So ashamed is he, of his numbers, after all his boasting and disparaging of other people, that he cannot be driven to naming how much of a circulation he claims.

We believe we may now venture to dismiss these points. There are others we must review.

We copy from the Gazette the following:

"The next thing we notice is the falsehood that we had taken an advertiser from him at 'half price.' This charge we pronounced untrue. He subsequently stated that we had taken the advertiser at $15, and that the regular price was $25. He again, yesterday, states that we took the advertiser at 'half price,' thus contradicting his own statement and piling falsehood upon falsehood. We now aver that his statements in this matter are untrue in whole and in part. We never took an advertiser from him at 'half price.' We did not take the person we suppose he refers to at $15. We did not take him from the editor at all. The advertiser commenced with us one year ago, long before our impertinent meddler commenced the publication of a paper. If he afterwards stopped his advertising in the Age, it is his business, not ours."

It will be seen that his denial here is, that $15 is the "half" of $25. He is right there, and we were incorrect in saying that $15 per annum was half price, it was two dollars and a half more than half price. But he calls the statement untrue, in whole or in part, after admitting to us in person, that his partner had taken this merchant at what he admitted was a very great reduction from the established rates. We can only say, that this merchant has offered to give us his advertising again if we would take it at the price the Gazette charged, which we declined of course. He took his advertising from us because we would not come down to the Gazette's rule, and if that is not taking an advertiser from us by underbidding, we don't know what it is.

The matter is now unimportant, except to sustain our impeachment of the editor's veracity. If any body yet doubts our truth, and feels any interest in knowing, we will cheerfully give the name of the merchant in question, to settle the value of the editor's veracity. So much finally on that point.

Once more. The Gazette has the following:

"It is well he admits it (the Power Press) was needed by somebody. He might have charged us with purchasing it for the mere pleasure of spending money, as the reckless gambler squanders his hundreds of thousands—not of his own, but other people's money—and then wipes off all by wailing himself of the provisions of the Bankrupt law."

This is very remarkable language. The Editor says, "we might have charged him with spending money, as the reckless gambler squanders his hundreds of thousands, not of his own, but other people's money, and then wipes off all by availing himself of the Bankrupt Law." This is putting words in our mouth, which we solemnly declare, we never applied to the Editor of the Gazette, and we hasten to disclaim them in the most emphatic manner. We never heard of his having been a Gambler, and we never said so. His vices are rather of the sort that may be covered and concealed by the specious cloak of profession.

A man may lie, may cheat, may insult every characteristic of honor and manhood, in the tortuous walks of a canting hypocrite, and still seem to be a Sabbath keeping, and a God fearing man.—But he cannot both gamble, and profess to be a Christian. That vice, and a sad vice it is, scorns concealments; no cloak can be worn over that.—The Gambler is confessed a practical unbeliever.

Such is not the Editor of the Gazette, and we acquit him freely and fully of any such charge.

Had we, instead, been suspected of covertly charging him with imitating, or, in plain language, counterfeiting labels to encourage imposture, we could not so fully have acquitted ourself. But of that more hereafter.

The Gazette has a further attempt at severity, which we shall now merely republish to make it the text of a future article. It is the charge, which he has acted on freely, but never before ventured to introduce into his columns, that we have been faithless to Henry Clay and Whig principles, in holding office under Mr. Tyler, and daring to attend a Tyler meeting, to give our countenance to his friends.

Here is the Gazette's language on that point. It is put indirectly, it will be observed, as most things are charged, by not straightforward men; this is interrogatively. We are rejoiced to have the charge made even in this shape in the Gazette, for we want our Tylerism understood.

"For instance,—if as a politician, and professing to be a Whig, we had, for the sake of office, been active at a public meeting in favor of that noted traitor John Tyler, and that, too, after Mr. Clay's nomination—or if we had exhorted our readers to vote the whole Whig ticket, and then ourselves had voted for two of the most objectionable men on the Locofoco ticket—such political treachery might have sealed our fate. But as it is, we feel very easy."

The reader who knows any thing of the history and career of the Editor of the Gazette, will smile at his temerity in charging any body with "political treachery," and "feeling easy," while he makes the charge. But, as we hope to be read, we shall pause here, to explain our Tylerism in another essay.

☞ A report, says the N. O. Picayune, was current in this city yesterday that Judge Garland had fled to Havana. It is ascertained that he had not been arrested, and that the officers had been unable to find him.

☞ The Governor of Alabama has offered a reward of $400, and other parties an additional sum of $600, for the arrest of Samuel S. Hinton, a lawyer of Cherokee county, Alabama, charged with the murder of the Sheriff of the county, Lanford Stallings, while in the discharge of his official duties.

From the New York Herald.

New and Wonderful Inventions in the Art of War.

The present position of the country, in respect to its foreign relations, naturally directs the minds of men towards the best methods of putting the country in a defensive situation, should any difficulty grow out of our relations towards any foreign nation.

Within the last few years, we have heard much of various improvements in every thing connected with art, in naval and military affairs. The next war between any two powerful nations, will be quite different from anything which has heretofore been seen in the world. Since the termination of the last war, steam has been introduced into naval operations, and this alone would produce a perfect revolution in military and naval tactics.

There are, however, certain statements made relating to an invention lately discovered in this neighborhood, which we have no doubt will astonish the world, and will satisfy every one that we are on the eve of a greater revolution, in military and naval affairs, than even the most sanguine mind could ever imagine.

During the last few months a series of experiments have been made with a new invention, originated by Mr. McCartey, a gentleman connected with the Navy Yard at Brooklyn. These experiments were ordered by the government, and witnessed by distinguished persons, and were considered by them to be most novel, most original, and most startling, in a naval and military point of view. Commodore Stewart, it will be remembered, spoke of a project by which it would be possible to defend the whole harbor of New York against the combined fleets of all the powers of the world. This may appear to be gasconade, but from information which has been communicated to us, we are fully assured that Commodore Stewart's assertion is perfectly correct and literal.

The scientific gentleman alluded to, Mr. McCartey, who is now connected with the Navy Yard, has invented a new species of artillery, which will discharge thirty balls in a minute, or one every two seconds, for hours together, in succession, and this by mechanical power alone, without gunpowder, chemical substance, or any other preparation. It is effected by merely putting the balls into a hopper and letting the ordnance throw them out with immense momentum, at the rate of one every two seconds. On one occasion, Mr. McCartey exhibited the operation of this invention in the Navy Yard, before a number of naval officers, who were all astonished by the force and power exhibited, as well as by the great simplicity of the machine. About twelve to twenty pieces of solid timber were united together, forming one compact body. Against this piece of wooden breastwork, Mr. McCartey opened the battery of his piece of ordnance, and in less than ten minutes, the whole solid breastwork was utterly demolished and shivered to splinters, by the powerful and rapid succession of discharges upon it.

The simplicity of this invention is one of its most singular features; in which respect it much resembles the anecdote told of Columbus and the egg. "Can you make this egg stand on one end?" said Columbus to the Spanish grandees. They tried and failed. Columbus instantly took the egg, indented one end, and then easily made it stand erect on the table. They regarded his feat as a farce, from its simplicity, whereupon he observed, "You think it now so easy, after it is done." It is exactly so with this wonderful invention. The secret of it is known and recorded in history from the time when David went forth with sling and stone to combat the proud Goliah. The principle of this new invention is simply a modification of the principle of the sling, applied to machinery, in connection with a tube or gun, throwing out a discharge of balls. The machine is so constructed that on putting in at one end the balls to be discharged, a rotary motion is produced by means of a crank, and, by a few rapid revolutions, each ball receives a force and momentum equal to that communicated by any quantity of gun-powder. When this has been done, a slide starts and allows each ball to escape in succession from the chamber into a tube, when they are thrown to almost any distance, and with unerring aim.

This ingenious invention, for which a patent had been taken out at Washington, and which ought to be purchased, is worth $500,000—nay, even millions, to the American Government, in the present crisis of its affairs. By means of such machines, placed in the forts at the Narrows, capable of discharging any number of balls of any calibre, the whole combined fleets of Europe could be torn in pieces and annihilated before they could reach the Battery at New York. When we reflect upon the astonishing, revolution in the art of war, which such a species of ordinance is calculated to produce, and the means of defence which it is capable of supplying, it is to be expected that the President and Congress will take up this matter, and have an armament prepared on this principle, which, by its cheapness its efficiency and power as a means of defence, is beyond all that has ever been conceived or seen in the world hitherto. It is a revolution at once.

Cheap Ornaments.

When Dr. Franklin was in Paris, his daughter, Mrs. Bache, wrote to him for a supply of feathers and thread lace. The Doctor declined in the following characteristic note:—"If you wear your cambric ruffles as I do, and take care not to mend the holes, they will come in time to be lace; and feathers, my dear girl, may be had in America, from every cock's tail."

Newspaper Change.

The partnership of Morris, Willis & Fuller, of the Mirror, says the N. Y Herald, has been dissolved the two former going out altogether, and the latter, Mr. Fuller, assuming all the responsibility hereafter. We have heard that a Mr. Clason, the son-in-law of the President of the State Bank, will have an interest in the Mirror hereafter. Willis' letters will still continue for a while—but what becomes of George P. Morris we know not. Probably he will retire to Undercliff, and cultivate lyric poetry and healthy potatoes.

We regret to announce, says the Baltimore Patriot, the death of the Hon. JAMES THOMAS, formerly Governor of Maryland. He died at his residence in St. Mary's county, on Christmas day, in the 62nd year of his age, of typhoid fever. with which he lingered a long time. Gov. T. was a most excellent and worthy man, and belonged to the old school of Maryland gentlemen. He filled in his life various public trusts under the State, and closed his public career as Governor of Maryland, in 1835, to which office he had been elected by the Legislature of the State. In every relation of life he discharged his duty faithfully and energetically, and by his many virtues, attached to him a large body of friends throughout the State. who will hear of his death with deep regret.

Interesting from Hayti.

The barque Hecla, Capt. Hoyt, arrived last evening from Port au Prince, whence she sailed on the 7th inst.

The difficulties between the Dominicans and Haytians continued in full force. A French commercial agent, residing at Cape Haytien, had been ordered off by the blacks, for acting as a sort of spy for the Dominicans. Not obeying immediately, he was marched down to the beach, and made to swim off to a Haytien man-of-war, on board of which he received a severe flogging.

This created some sensation, and may lead to the blockade of all the Haytien ports by the French. A steamer conveying information of the occurrence had been despatched to the French Admiral on the Coast, but had not returned on the 6th inst.

Will not this affair afford an excellent opportunity for the French to recover their lost colony?

Delirium.

"Never was drunk but once in my life," said a chap in my hearing "and I never mean to be again. The street seemed to be very steep and I lifted my feet at every step as if I was getting up stairs. Several cart wheels were making revolutions in my brains, and I at one time fancied my head was a large turning establishment, the lathes of which I was keeping in motion with my feet. I could'nt conceive what was the reason the town had turned into such an enormous hill; and what made it worse was, that it seemed all the time to be growing higher and threated to pitch over on me. Stop, stop, said I, and I'll heed this old hill yet, or at least, it shan't head me. I turned round to go down and get at the bottom; tell me! if the town did'nt turn right round with me, heading me all the time, and presenting the high bluff in front of me. Well, sure enough, the ground flew up and struck me on the forehead; and as soon as the stars cloared away, I commenced climbing with my hands and knees. The next thing I saw was a big brick house coming full split round a corner and I believe it run right over me, for I don't remember any more.—Picayune.

ASSOCIATION AND CHRISTIANITY, exhibiting the anti-Moral and anti-Christian character of the Churches, and the social relations in present Christendom, and urging the necessity of Industrial Association, founded on Christian brotherhood and unity. By H. H. Van Amringe, author of a Voice to the Jews, and Nature and Revelation. Pittsburgh, J. W. Cook, No. 85, Fourth street.

This is a volume whose forthcoming has already been announced in our columns. Of its character, further than disclosed by its elaborate title, we cannot yet speak, having had no leisure to extend our examination further. But all who know Mr. Van Amringe, must know that he brings to whatever subject he proposes to treat, a discriminating mind, and much earnestness and sincerity of purpose; hence, his book cannot be otherwise than interesting and instructive.

It is a neat volume of 122 pages, handsomely printed, and offered at the low price of 25 cents. The author's object was to reach the popular mind, not to make a profit on his book; and the price charged, is fixed with the view to pay expenses merely.

Twenty-ninth Congress.

FIRST SESSION.

Correspondence of the Baltimore American.

WSHINGTON, Dec. 29,

The Oregon Resolutions introduced in the Senate to-day, by Mr. Hannegan of Indiana, read as follows:

Resolved, That the country included within the parallels of 42 and 54° 40 north latitude, and extending from the Rocky Mountains to the Pacific Ocean, known as the territory of Oregon, is the property of and part and parcel of the United States.

Resolved, That there exists no power in the Government to transfer its soil and the allegiance of its citizens to the dominion, authority, control and subjection of any Foreign Power, Prince, State or Sovereignty.

Resolved, That the abandonment or surrender of any portion of the territory of Oregon would be an abandonment of the honor, character and the best interests of the American people.

These Resolutions have been suggested probably by those of an opposite character introduced into the House of Representatives by Mr. Winthrop of Mass., They can hardly be adopted by the Senate in the present state of this question, and after the Resolutions already before the Senate, they are regarded as having been brought forward only to add to the reputation of the mover.

The Senate and House of Representatives have passed another Texas bill to day. The whole State of Texas has been organized into one Collection District. There are three Texas bills which have now been passed since Congress met. Two of them have been signed by the President. The third will be signed to-morrow and all immediately despatched to Texas by a special messenger.

☞ The Baltimore Constitution has been discontinued for want of support.

☞ CAN CONSUMPTION BE CURED?—This question is asked by many anxious souls, who, perhaps, are in the last stage of disease, or have some near or valuable friends thus afflicted; to this I answer, painful as it is to say, that few ever recover. Death cannot be deprived of its prey, when disease has knitted its fatal threads upon the vitals. It is therefore of the utmost importance for all persons who may have a bad cold, cough, pain in the breast and side, soreness of the throat, difficulty of raising up the phlegm, night sweats, hectic flushes, which are but the primary stages, and leads to Consumption when not removed. To such as are afflicted, I would recommend them to procure at once a few bottles of DR. DUNCAN'S Expectorant Remedy which is certain to remove all the first symptoms that so often bring so long to the system, and finally destroy life. A RELIEVED SUFFERER.

THAT SELLERS' FERMIFUGE is the Best in Use!! Here is the Proof:

LICKING STATION, Ky., Dec. 17th, 1845.

Mr. R. E. Sellers: I have the pleasure to inform you that I have used in my practice, your celebrated Vermifuge, with the most happy results. I have formerly used Fahnestock's, but being persuaded to try yours, I have found it far superior in every respect, and can say without the fear of contradiction, that your Vermifuge possesses more virtue than any I ever used, and most cordially recommend it to the attention of the public. I will state a case where I gave one vial of your Vermifuge: My brother's child was pining and wasting to a mere skeleton: in 30 hours after I gave the Vermifuge, the enormous quantity of upwards of one hundred worms were passed. The child that was given up as lost, is now well and as hearty as any in the neighborhood.

LOCAL MATTERS.

FIREMANS' JOURNAL FOR DECEMBER.—Last month we had scarcely any report to make, either in false alarms or fires. As December is the winding up of the old year; we have a pretty fair report to make. The month opened with a false alarm in Allegheny city. 3d, a fire broke out in Kennedy & Brother's Printing office, on Federal street, which was entirely consumed. 6th. false alarm. 11th, a small fire at Bollman's Vinegar Establishment on Liberty street—damage trifling. 14th, a fire broke out in the Odd Fellows' Lodge, corner of Wood and Virgin alley, which was destroyed, together with the Printing office of the Pittsburgh Catholic; Messrs Kerr & Mohler's drug-store received considerable damage. 13th, a small fire in Allegheny city. 15th. false alarm, caused by the ringing of the Allegheny factory bells at noon 25th, (Christmas) 2 false alarms.—28th, a fire broke out in the warehouse of Mr. W. Noble, on Third street, which was saved from destruction, by our energetic firemen: same evening there was a false alarm. 31st, a small fire in Coal Lane, the Allegheny engine broke her axletree, crossing Smithfield street. This was about the only damage done.

Total, 6 Fires and 3 False Alarms.

OUR FIREMEN are the best in the whole Union, that is the fact; but they have one failing. They will run races, thus jeopardizing the lives of their members While the Vigilant was running on Wednesday, on Smithfield street, two or three slipped on the ice, and only made a "hair breadth 'scape" from serious injury. Walk, boys, particularly when there is no hurry.

DISTRICT COURT.—Judge Grier presiding—The jury on the case of Wm Robb, President of the Fayette Township School District vs. Wm. Ebbs, Administrator, de bonis non, of the estate of Robert Taylor, dec., returned a verdict of $1491 against the defence.

This action was brought against Mr. Taylor's estate, as security on the bond of McDonald, Treasurer of School Fund for the district,

ASSAULT AND BATTERY—A negro by the name of S. A. Coleman, was committed yesterday for an assault upon another man by the name of Gray

COMMITTED—The two black women who were arrested on Tuesday for being concerned in the robbery of Mr. Hony's house, were fully committed for trial, yesterday morning. The one for burglary, the other for receiving stolen goods.

JURORS—The Jurors of the District Court have been discharged until Monday. The Court adjourned over until Saturday.

THE COMMON PLEAS COURT will not be in session to-day. It will convene to-morrow and Monday, the jury cases will be recommenced.

THE NEW COUNCIL ROOMS.—We Stated yesterday, that the proper Committee in Council had recommended the erection of a new building for the use of the Mayor and Councils. Now, for our part, we should consider that the cause of economy would be much better served, were Councils to rent the rooms over the new office on Fourth street. We examined them yesterday and they appear to us admirably fitted for the purpose. If the new building is erected, what is to be done with the lease of Mr. Breed's house?

A NEW CONCERT ROOM.—We were yesterday invited by the proprietor to examine the new Concert room in the third story of the new Mayor's office. It is one of the largest rooms in the city, and decorated with great elegance. The Fresco painting is really beautiful.

THE WEATHER yesterday was warm, but the street's intolerable.

THEATRE.—It will be seen that Mr. Porter opens the Theatre this evening. He offers a very attractive bill.

THE POST OFFICE will be open to day from 9 to 10 o'clock only.

A GOOD DINNER expressly for New Years, will be dished up at the Sans Souci, to day. Ready at 12½ o'clock.

POLICE—There were three cases before his honor yesterday morning. All of whom were sent to the hill.

ALLEGHENY POLICE—There was one case before mayor Nixon, yesterday. Fine paid.

Mr. HILANDS, one of our members, leaves to-day for Harrisburgh.

YESTERDAY there was a battle royal on the ice, between the boys of Pittsburgh and Allegheny. In the beginning stones were the only weapons used, but the Allegheny boys being soon driven from the ice, to regain their footing, they made an attack on their opponents with pistols. The general impression among the Pittsburghers was, that the pistols were loaded with powder only, but after a few discharges, one boy was struck, though the shot with which the pistol was loaded only penetrated his skin. A small boy, however, approaching nearer, was struck on the cheek, just below the eye, by a slug. Luckily, he was not much injured, though he kept up a doleful outcry for a time, and the blood running freely, he, in his attempts to wipe it off, spread it all over his face, and rendered himself a hideous spectacle. The Pittsburghers vow to be revenged to-day, and as there will be an unusual number on the ice, perhaps it will be as well for a constable or two to be in attendance. We should suppose that about thirty shots were fired, though owing to the distance between the contending parties, the above was the only instance in which any damage was done.

DU QUESNE GREYS ARMORY.

The Chairman announced the decease of our late member, ABNER L. PENTLAND, and appointed Lieut. W. Hays, Jr., and Ensign Wm. J. Ankrim and H. Cantrell, a committee to prepare resolutions—the following were adopted.

Whereas, In the dispensations of Divine Providence one of the members of the corps, has been suddenly removed from amongst us, reminding us "that in the midst of life we are in death,"

Therefore Resolved, That in the death of Abner L. Pentland, his family has sustained an irreparable loss—that of an affectionate son and brother—his companions "a tried friend," and society a valuable man.

Resolved, That in token of respect for the memry of the deceased, we wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved, That the committee communicate to the friends of the deceased a letter of condolence, with a copy of these resolutions.

The Mission to Mexico.

A Washington correspondent of the Trenton Gazette says that a bearer of despatches from Mr. Slidell, has arrived at Washington, who states that the American Minister was received with a salute, and that the Government had agreed to sell California to the United States for twelve millions.—This statement must, however, be premature. A Washington letter in the N. Y. Patriot says:

"Mr. Slidell was not sent to Mexico to negotiate for California. His capacity is that of Resident Minister, which necessarily embraces all the questions connected with the American Embassy. The principal object that will occupy his attention and care will be the adjustment of our claims already passed upon, and such as are not adjudicated. It is proposed to present these to the notice of the Mexican government, in the aggregate, and in that way to induce an offer on her part, for the settlement of the Texan boundary to the Rio del Norte and for the disposal of other territory lying on the Pacific. It is part of Mr. Slidell's duty to inform her Government, if England has succeeded in obtaining a mortgage upon Mexico, and it is the policy and interest of this country, to see that a release is given to Mexico, and that such an arrangement is made with her, either by treaty or purchase, so as to exclude the possibility of establishing any other institutions than those of a Republican form of Government upon the shores of the Pacific. This is about the amount of the whole story, in plain and direct language."

The Brownsville Route.

Navigation to Brownsville, closed on the 4th of December and still remains closed, unless for tow boats, that run a short distance above the city, for the purpose of supplying our citizens with coal.

The only intermission in navigation to Brownsville was from the 12th of January last to the 22d, and from February 4th, to the 15th. So that it will be seen that the river closed early in December this season, and not till January last season.

At present our sincere wishes is that it may speedily open, so that our wharf may again be covered with the various kinds of Pittsburgh Manufactured articles, and that our ears may again be greeted with the shrill whistle of our daily Cincinnati Packets, as they arrive and depart from our landing.

☞ The steamer Defiance arrived at New Orleans on the 13th.

☞ The steamer North Carolina, Capt. Devenny, arrived at New Orleans on the 17th.

W. FORWARD.—Tow Boat—This is the name of a fine little craft, just completed at our landing, intended for a tow boat. We noticed her on Wednesday, ploughing through the ice, above treating it with perfect contempt. We do not know the owners, but they have our best wishes for success.

CLIPPER No. 2.—This fine craft is progressing rapidly. She will be ready to take her place in the line between this place and Cincinnati about the middle of February.

☞ The river seems about the same as at our last report. It rises a few inches during the night, and falls about the same next day. The steamers Pickaway and Laura still make regular trips to Beaver.

☞ On the eight of January, 1842, there were sixteen feet water in the channel, and rising, at the port. We should like to see about the same amount in the channel on the eighth of the present month, and we know some others that would like to see it.

☞ The New Albany Gazette notices a new steamboat just built at that place, and now lying at the Portland wharf. She is called the Glencoe.

She measures 265 feet on deck and 34 feet beam; 7½ feet hold; 14 feet between decks; 23 feet wheels and 15 feet buckets. She has four boilers 32 feet long; cylinders 23 inches in diameter and 10 feet stroke, which the Gazette thinks will give sufficient power to move her through our "inland seas" at a rapid rate. Her cabin is 200 feet in the clear, and is neatly and conveniently arranged.—She is to be commanded by Capt. James Montgomery, an old and popular officer. She, no doubt does credit to the skill of the mechanics of New Albany.

And a variety of other diseases arising from impurities of the blood, and obstructions in the organs of digestion.

Experience has proved that nearly every disease to which the human frame is subject originates from impurities of the Blood or Derangements of the Digestive Organs; and to secure Health we must remove those obstructions or restore blood to its natural state. This important fact has long been familiar to the world—but our natural aversion to medicine in any shape has hitherto determined us, in many cases, to prefer the disease to its cure. Now, however, the objection is effectually removed by CLICKENER'S PURGATIVE PILLS, which being completely enveloped with a coating of pure white sugar (as differed from the internal ingredients as a nut shell from the kernel) have no taste of medicine, but are as easily swallowed as bits of candy. Moreover they neither nauseate or gripe in the slightest degree. This is occasioned by the fact that they are compounded on scientific principles and based on an intimate acquaintance with the origin of disease and the actual structure of the human system, which enables them to operate equally on all the diseased parts of the system. Thus, for example, if the Liver be affected, one ingredient will operate on that particular organ, and by cleansing it of that excess of bile it is constantly discharging into the stomach, restore it to its natural state. Another will operate on the blood, and remove those impurities which have already entered into its circulation, while a third will effectually expel from the system whatever impurities may have been discharged into the stomach through the instrumentality of the other ingredients. Hence, they strike at the root of Disease, remove all impure humors (the principal cause of disease) from the body, open the pores externally and internally, promote the insensible perspiration, separate all foreign and obnoxious particles from the Chyle, ensure a free and healthy action to the heart, lungs and liver, and thereby restore health, even when every other means have failed.

The entire truth of the above can be ascertained by the trial of a single box; and their virtues are so positive and certain in restoring health that the proprietor binds himself to return the money paid for them in all cases where they do not give entire satisfaction.

PRICE TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER BOX.

Principal Office, 79 and 81, Barclay st., New York.

Pittsburgh Depot is at WM. JACKSON'S Boot and Shoe Warehouse, corner of Liberty and Wood streets.

☞ Beware of an imitation article called Improved Sugar-Coated Pills, purporting to be patented, as both the pills and pretended patent are forgeries, got up by a miserable quack in New York, who, for the last four or five years has made his living by counterfeiting popular medicines.

☞ Remember Dr. C. V. Clickener is the original inventor of Sugar Coated Pills, and that nothing of the sort was ever heard of until he introduced them in June, 1843 as will be seen by the following

PREMIUM.

This diploma was awarded by the American Institute at the Annual Fair, held in the city of New York, October 1843, C. V. CLICKENER, for the invention of Sugar-Coated Pills. JAMES T. ELLMADGE, President.

GORDON J. LEEDS, Rec. Sec'y.

T. B. Wakeman, Cor Sec'y.

To avoid impositions, purchasers must always ask for "Clickner's Sugar Coated Vegetable Pills," and take no other, as they will be made the victims of a fraud.

FAHNESTOCK'S VERMIFUGE.—This is to certify that my youngest boy, aged about two years, was taken sick last summer with the summer complaint. He was attended by a physician all summer, and received little or no relief. About the middle of November, I gave him some of Fahnestock's Vermifuge, which brought away one hundred and thirty large worms, and gave him immediate relief; he has been perfectly well ever since.

Anna's Warning.

I HAVE come, I have come, to lay bare the green trees
And to sweep through the fields with my turbulent breeze;
I have come to strip hedges while rushing along,
And to silence the note of the warbler's song.
I have come with my mist and my cold falling dew,
To tell you that winter will soon be in view.
I have come to give warning that all ought to wear
The new style of GUMS that excludes the damp air.

I mention these articles because I know well,
That none in the city their beauty excel;
I'll venture to say that in all the trade round,
Such durable articles there ne'er can be found.
These GUMS, you will find, are sure to resist
The cold blowing breeze and the chill Autumn mist.

My breezes may blow and my vapors may fall,
But the mineralized GUM is sure to stand all.
You'll never have cause to regret what you've done,
In purchasing shoes made of Mineralized Gum.
Then take my advice, and wear the Gum shoes;
And remember, it is the true Autumn news.

FROM FIFTY TO ONE HUNDRED LOTS IN ALLEGHENY CITY, FOR SALE.—The undersigned offers for sale, on accomoeating terms, from fifty to one hundred lots in Allegheny city, the titles to which are indisputable. These lots are twenty four feet in front, running back from eighty to one hundred and forty feet, except the corner lots, which vary from one hundred to upwards of two hundred feet front. They are pleasantly situated in the First Ward, on the bank of the Ohio river, comprising the only portion of Allegheny City suitable for a good Steamboat, or Ferry landing, and are well calculated for residences, and for manufacturing establishments, or other purposes. The Omnibus from the bridge and the Stage for Beaver pass the property, daily, the former at short intervals, and Coal can be procured from the opposite side of the Ohio, at any season of the year. Manufacturers can obtain the quantity of ground necessary, upon very reasonable terms, and will find it to possess peculiar advantages for such purposes. Mechanics, river men and others will find it an excellent location for the erection of dwellings. A plot of ground can be seen and further information obtained by calling upon the subscribers, on the premises.
